State of play: The Australian project management industry

Together with KPMG, the AIPM has completed a research study on the project management industry to understand the importance of successfully delivering projects and programs within organisations today. These results will provide a snapshot of the project management profession in Australia and help identify the elements within PM that require the greatest (or most immediate) advocacy and support.

Join Peter Sexton, Partner - Management Consulting, KPMG and Michael Young, Deputy Chair of AIPM as they set the scene for the conference and reveal the emerging trends, current industry landscape and what it all means for the future of project management.

Peter Sexton MAIPM, Partner - Management Consulting, KPMG. Michael Young FAIPM CPPE, Deputy Chair of the Board, AIPM

10:00AM – 10:40AM Session 2 – Keynote Presentation

Presence and influence in high stake engagements

The future is steaming ahead on a track of continued digital innovation, but 'mind the gap'. Between the fast moving juggernaut of change is the ever present need to get your message across and a widening chasm of interpersonal skills to inspire and engage.

Dr Louise Mahler's is a thought leader in the field of presence and influence who advises C-Suite internationally on how to live the change.

Her innovative thinking and distinctive style drives palpable change for the individual, the group and has potential to change a nation. In this highly interactive and often hilarious session you will develop an understanding your physical and vocal options as an integral part to motivating and inspiring others.

You will have an opportunity to diagnose your own habitual patterns of engagement, build new skills and enjoy every moment.

Dr Louise Mahler, Author, Coach and Mentor

Showcase: Moorebank Logistics Park (MLP)

The 243 hectare development will consist of the construction and operation of an IMEX terminal and an interstate rail terminal with capacity to transport up to 1.05 million TEU (twenty foot equivalent units) a year of import-export freight and another 0.5 million TEU of interstate freight per year. It will also include 850,000 square metres of high specification warehousing. A rail connection to the Southern Sydney Freight Line (SSFL) will be built that has direct access to the park, with the M5 and M7 arterial roads minutes away providing a complete supply chain solution driving savings in time and costs for onsite tenants. Greg Pauline, Director – Infrastructure and Property at Qube Holdings will provide an overview of the project and the challenges involved with development and planning of the largest freight infrastructure project in Australia.

Raising awareness about inclusion and diversity in the workplace

There is an incredible push to see more diverse and inclusive workplaces across Australia. Many large corporates are creating and developing diversity and inclusion action plans to increase and retain employees from diverse and marginalised communities and backgrounds. But this shouldn't be done just to be politically correct and tick a box. Diversity enriches workplace culture and provides many benefits to companies who are willing to be inclusive. In speaking on this topic, Genevieve highlights not only the importance of diversity and inclusion in the workforce but also inspires people to become passionate advocates for diversity and inclusion in their own spheres of influence.

Genevieve Clay-Smith, Film Maker, Entrepreneur, Story Teller

9:35AM – 10:20AM Session 6 – Keynote Presentation

World of Project Management.

The project management discipline has a plethora of guidance: bodies of knowledge, competence baselines, national and international standards, organizational practices and procedures. How can a project manager deal with all of this information, especially when some of it is in conflict? In this presentation, William will demonstrate how each project management guidance document is similar to a geographical map. He'll also show how viewing the various guidance documents as maps in an atlas will help you make better use of them.

The game is changing: SMART cities and High Speed Rail.

CLARA (Consolidated Land and Rail Australia) is proposing to build new regional, compact, sustainable, SMART cities and connect them by the world's most advanced high speed rail between Sydney, Canberra and Melbourne.

In March 2018 CLARA was successful in the Federal Government's Faster Rail Initiative. Through this, CLARA will be completing a $16m Strategic Business case, with the Australian Government, for two new SMART, sustainable, greenfield cities connected by high speed rail to Melbourne's CBD. The CLARA consortium has already started work and aims to have completed their strategic business case by early 2019.

Hear from CLARA's Founder, Nick Cleary as he provides an insight into CLARA's vision, challenges and drivers as they undertake this world-leading infrastructure project and change the game for good.

Nick Cleary, Founder, Consolidated Land and Rail Australia (CLARA)

4:10PM – 4:50PM Session 8 – Keynote Presentation

The OneSKY project: a world leading collaboration.

As the world's most advanced civil and military airspace integration project of its time, the OneSKY project is a unique and complex initiative with the clear objective to deliver Australia's first harmonised civil and military air traffic management system (CMATS).

Lawrence Brown and Chris Deeble will share their experiences as leaders of this large collaborative project, outlining the importance of the initial contract stage, the critical skills challenge they faced throughout the project and the intricacies of managing multiple stakeholder relationships.
